History of Prudence

A graduate of New York's Fashion Institute of Technology and a former assistant buyer for the Associated Merchandising Corporation, Prudence left New York and moved to London in 1986. After working as a free-lance fashion stylist, Prudence trained for several years in couture millinery. All of her hats are made in the classical manner using only traditional millinery techniques. Prudence designed her first collection for spring 1991 under her own label, Prudence, and received orders from Bergdorf Goodman and Henri Bendel both in New York. In November 1990 she was asked by London designer Vivienne Westwood to create the hats for her autumn / winter 1991 collection and has been working with Vivienne ever since. She was also asked to design models for Balenciaga in Paris. In May 1991 she had her first international cover for Italian Vogue with a hat from her spring collection gracing the head of supermodel Linda Evangelista. After that followed many photographs and articles for various magazines and newspapers such as L' Uomo Vogue, British Vogue, Vogue Italia, Vanity Fair, Elle, W and Harpers & Queen. In 1993 she began designing ladies hats for Bond Street hatter Herbert Johnson and in that same year designed a spring collection for Joseph in Knightsbridge. Prudence now also designs and produces couture hats for men following the success of the Vivienne Westwood MAN collections and in winter 1996 Prudence and Vivienne Westwood won the Best Accessories Award for the MAN couture hats by the Fashion Council of America. Prudence worked with Tom Ford at Yves Saint Laurent and Gucci. She designed and produced all the pret-a-porter hats for Rive Gauche in Paris for men and women. Prudence has also designed hats for Sir Hardy Amies, London. She has also designed and made hats for such people as Jerry Hall, Rachel Welch, Diana Princess of Wales, Joan Collins, Hugh Grant, Lady Snowden, Linda Evangelista, Dior model Bettina, best-selling American author Nancy Friday, Duran Duran's Simon Le Bon and The Sex Pistols. She has created two collections for Balfour Hats and designed an exclusive collection for the store Le Bon Marché in Paris. Prudence has also taught couture millinery in conjunction with the Vivienne Westwood course at the Hochschule der Künste in Berlin and at Colorado State University, the Paris American Academy in Paris, the American Intercontinental University in London and at Mode Gakuen in Tokyo, Osaka and Nagoya. Prudence is currently designing her third knit hat collection with Yoshikawa – boushi Inc. in Japan, which will be sold throughout Japan at select United Arrows branches. She has worked with French sportswear label Lacoste designing and producing women's caps and bands for the spring / summer 2006 collections in New York. She also has been designing collections of hats for Weave Toshi sold exclusively at CA4LA and Test shops throughout Japan since autumn / winter 2006. Prudence has been designing and making hats for French designer Charles Anastase's since autumn / winter 2007.
